

Why drasatic decrease in the FCC reimbursement rates to compensate VRS providers? Lately, I have to wait long for the availability of the relay operator, and it has been happening often. I fear this would create the ripple effect that a caller might be making too many calls in one call to VRS.